SPONSORSHIP PROSPECTUS

SPONSOR PROSPECTUS

We cordially invite you to participate as a sponsor at the TRI-Conference of the 1st Eastern Canada Mass Spectrometry Conference (ECMS 2019), the 10th International Symposium of Enabling Technology (ETP 2019) and the 35th Annual Trent Conference on Mass Spectrometry.

In 2019, the TRI-Conference will feature a program that will be three days in length, thereby giving sponsors and delegates an opportunity to network and interact with an elite group of presenters and students to facilitate fostering new collaborations.

Lekha Sleno, Associate Professor in the Chemistry Department at Université du Québec à Montréal and Janette Champ, President of ETP Symposium Inc., are putting together an exciting group of invited speakers to present recent results using cutting-edge technologies within their research groups and featuring a talk from this year's Ken Standing Award winner.

For 2019, TRI-Conference are working together to bringing sponsors and delegates an exciting new program.

This is an opportunity for all members of the CSMS to receive a special discount to participate at this TRI-Conference. There are several student travel grants available to attend the TRI-Conference in Sherbrooke, QC.

The TRI-Conference is committed to organizing and operating educational seminars and forums to facilitate the presentation and discussion of research into new developments in innovative technology.

This TRI-Conference provides an open, interdisciplinary forum for scientists, engineers and technologists to discuss research and development of innovative tools that extend the capabilities of researchers. This year we have extended the features to provide an all-encompassing program that includes: a world-class program of speakers from industry and academia, oral and poster presentations from submitted abstracts, exhibitor showcases, exhibitor workshop and tech talks. For more information please see our website at www.etpsymposium.org. Several awards are also presented at the TRI-Conference: Ken Standing Award, sponsored in part by the University of Manitoba and the Bill Davidson Graduate Student Travel Awards sponsored by SCIEX. The TRI-Conference is designed to be a research retreat held over three days. Registration fees will include an option of registrations that would include all meals and accommodations or just meals. This will provide sponsors with an excellent opportunity to showcase their products by giving tech talks or workshops. Details of these are open for discussion with the organizers.

Our prospectus offers all-inclusive pricing – there are no additional costs.

We anticipate the participation of researchers from a variety of disciplines, with about 80% from Eastern / Central Canada and 20% from other areas. To ensure an intimate and collegial atmosphere for this prestigious event, attendance will be limited to 150 participants.

We look forward to welcoming you to the TRI-Conference at Bishop's University, Sherbrooke, QC.

Sincerely,

Janette Champ
President,
ETP Symposium Inc.

Historic ETP Events

The ETP Symposium was initiated as part of a Genome Canada project sponsored by MDS Sciex (now known as SCIEX), Genome Alberta and Genome Prairie. Its major theme was to have world-renown scientists present papers on their experiences with novel technologies that have, or will have a major influence on research in the life sciences. The popularity of the original two symposia led to the creation of a not-for-profit entity, ETP Symposium Inc., who now is responsible for organizing the symposium on a biennial basis. The theme remains the same: alerting scientists in the life sciences to advances in new technology that could have a significant impact on their research activities.

The original founders of ETP are Dr. William (Bill) Davidson and Janette Champ.

Since its inception, ETP has been fortunate to have world-renown scientists present their work. Please see our historic conference webpage for complete details (<http://www.etpsymposium.org/events/historic/historic.html>)

Historic Trent Conferences

The Trent Conference on Mass Spectrometry originally known as "Gas-Phase Chemistry Conference", "Gas-Phase Ion/Molecule Chemistry Conference of Southern Ontario" started in the 1977 at the Trent University and was organized by Diethard K. Bohme (York University) and Raymond E. March (Trent University). The Conference was named originally this as there had been a strong tradition in Canada for research into gas phase chemistry and this tradition was being continued. The first conference was judged to be a modest success and it was agreed that the second conference would be held in three years time, in 1980. In the 1990 the name was changed to "The Trent Conference". The Trent Conference continued through the 1990s and continues to run through the 2000s. This year marks the 35th Trent Conference.
